PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

The U. D. C. held most interesting meeting last Wednesday.

The frame work on the new market house is going up rapidly.

Col. S. V. Pickens has returned to town, after his winter's stay in Florida.

W. C. Robinson, whose little girl was recently killed, is in the city this week.

Cards of invitation are out for the silver wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Waldrop on March 22nd.

A party of thirty or forty of our people who are up on French, it is presumed, went to Asheville to see the divine Sarah.

A four weeks' term of Superior Court for the trial of civil cases only, began last Monday, in Asheville, Judge W. R. Allen presiding.

Dr. Egerton has returned from Conway, S. C. bringing his wife with him. Mrs. Egerton is still very ill, but is on road to recovery.

Staton, Rector, Cunningham & Co. have rented to Mrs. J. R. Keeu, of Thomasville, N. C., the Fremont House, for the coming summer season.

Unless you want your property advertised for sale, better see Tax Collector Brooks before April first, when he is obliged to make settlement with County Treasurer.

They have introduced a bill limiting private fortunes to $10,000,000. Fortunately they placed it at ten million. We will not be obliged to give up any of ours.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fry, and Miss Belle Freeman visited Mrs. Hesterley and Mrs. Freeman Sunday. Mr. Freeman is a prominent lumber dealer of Asheville.

J. C. Carson, from Asheville, is in the city to remain during the summer. Mrs. Carson and children will arrive from Charlotte sometime during the week.

The Hendersonville Bar passed resolutions thanking Judge Justice for the fair, impartial and able manner in which he conducted the recent session of court.

W. C. Lyda has removed his stock of merchandise from the front portion of the HUSTLER building to D. Stepp's meat market, on W. College St., where he will be pleased to meet his old friends and customers.

The notorious Jones-Cagle case was finally settled at the last court. Jones got 12 months on the streets and Mrs. Cagle sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs, which fine however, was later remitted.

Mr. W. A. Austen, a visitor here, paid the citizens of the town a pretty compliment the other day, when he told me that during his week's stay he had heard but one profane word, and that was used under strong provocation. A good record.

The Masonic Lodge has the pleasant distinction of being the first in the city to have an electric sign. Their emblem of compass and square is most beautifully brought out in red, blue and white lights, on the front of Capt. Toms' building, and presents a fine appearance.

The business of the HUSTLER Job Department has increased so rapidly that it is necessary to occupy the space formerly occupied by W. C. Lyda's store. The front part of the office will be attractively painted and decorated, and used partly as a business office, and partly to store our new stock of paper and stationery, which is now beginning to arrive.

There are now thirty men, and over, working on the city streets. For the past week they have been engaged in taking out the last of these old forest giants, and it certainly adds to the appearance of Main street, and undoubtedly to the convenience of travel on the sidewalks. Main street, (pity it has not some other name) is counted one of the finest streets in the south. Wide, perfectly level, well paved, with a fine view from any point, it cannot but make a favorable impression on any visitor.

The New Railroad.

Patterson Bros., of Atlanta, will be here next week to meet the Board of Trade committee, in reference to the new railroad which is to run from Greenville to Knoxville. Mr. Perkins, of the Hotel Gates, received communication from Mr. Gates to that effect on Wednesday.

As is generally understood, if Hendersonville is included in the scheme, and if she does her proper share towards building the line, it will be of inestimable benefit to the town and county, giving us direct communication with Knoxville, and being the first step towards making Hendersonville a railroad center.

Mrs. Pless, of Knoxville is a guest at W. A. Smith's.

Miss Saint Clair Hawkins has returned from her southern trip.

Rev. Wilcox, of the Episcopal church, has returned from his trip to the North.

A. A. Gates, accompanied by Mrs. Gates and two children, are in the city.

Mrs. W. C. Connell, of Pleasant Hill, is in Asheville, receiving treatment for her eyes.

A. W. Sitton, of Easley, S. C., was in the city Tuesday. He is up on business pertaining to his farm at Horse Shoe.

L. W. Walker, of Crescent Carbonating Co., expects to begin making deliveries next week.

The Democratic county convention of Haywood county will meet in Waynesville, Aug. 6, to nominate county officers.

Work has begun on the handsome new residence of Mr. R. C. Clarke, on West Broad street.

The supper given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church Tuesday night was an entire success.

Owing to lack of space we are obliged to leave out many interesting communications, which will appear next week.

The B. Y. P. U. are going to support a foreign missionary, and a collection was taken up for that purpose last Sunday night.

A curiosity, in its way, is the rosen chips which Mr. Davis has for sale at his coal and wood yard, and which is unequalled for starting fires.

The windows of the Hendersonville Mercantile Co., with their numerous electric lights, made a handsome display; well worth stopping to look at.

Thos. Ivey, of Boston, will address the Board of Trade tomorrow, Thursday evening, at the court house at 7:30, on Forestry and Rail Roads as applicable to Hendersonville. Everybody invited, especially the ladies.

Dr. Z. T. Pinner, of Horse Shoe, was summoned to the bed side of his sister in Baltimore, Monday, who is reported at this writing to be in a critical condition.

Mr. Wilson's family will leave Pittsburgh for this city during the present week. They will make their future home here.

Measrs. Smith, Waldrop, Holmes, Valentine and Cole are at work in West Hendersonville, on Broad and other streets, with a force of laborers and three road scrapes.

E. W. Perry has added to his herd of Jersey cows at Hid-away Farm some fine registered cows, the bull of which was sold for $10,000. He also has a fine young registered bull from Baltimore.

Carolina Real Estate, Loan & Development Company, report real estate prospects good. Have sold the Garland stable, on Main St., to C. D. Hyder, and rented two houses for the summer to Southern people.

Dr. Gilbert T. Rowe, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Asheville, will deliver a literary address at the Methodist Church here, Friday night, March 23rd. No admission will be charged at the door, but a collection will be taken. The address will be under the auspices of the Epworth League.

The new Presbyterian church will be ready for occupancy this summer. The old church has been sold to the Baptist congregation, through a committee representing that church, who will move the building to Mud Creek, beyond the depot, where it will be used as a Baptist mission.

Miss Woodall, the competent and expert trimmer, who has so successfully served with Mrs. Hart for the past several years, will return on the 9th inst. from an extended trip north, having visited Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, in the interest of her trade and selecting goods for the firm.

The death of little Ollie Bennett, age 14, is a sad loss to the child's parents and her many friends. The little one had a severe attack of typhoid fever, a year ago, leaving her with a weak heart. The few days previous to her death, she was apparently in better health than at any time for the year past. She was found dead, in bed with her mother, Sunday morning between 4 and 6 o'clock.

Board of Trade Meeting.

Judge Justice and Solicitor Spainhour, at the last meeting of the Board of Trade, made characteristic and interesting remarks concerning local conditions. Judge Justice said North Carolina was the finest state in the Union, and that Henderson county had some of the best men in it. He advised unity of thought and action, persistent advertising and TALKING of Hendersonville. It will not be long before the possibilities of our soil and climate will astonish ourselves, remarked his Honor. Take your own state and county papers and become identified with every movement tending to advance Hendersonville and Henderson county interests. Be progressive. Don't live in the past. Sam Jones said "that these people who live on their past and their ancestors are like potato vines, the best part of them are under ground."

Solicitor Spainhour said that if North Carolina was the finest state in the Union, the western part was the best in the state. He advised unity of action and thought in reference to the city's progress. Unite in talking Hendersonville. Cited High Point as a shining example of what may be done by the citizens of a town simply developing their own resources, with little or no outside capital. It has now about 100 furniture factories, and their best lumber comes from right here, then they ship the furniture back and sell it to us. You can kill any town by talking it down. He remarked recently to Locke Craig, of Asheville, that Hendersonville was the finest town in Western North Carolina. "Yes," said Mr. Craig, "except Asheville." Show the same spirit here. "Except HENDERSONVILLE!"

The more enterprises you can bring here, the better for the town. A city was never built by boarding houses and stores. Instead of saying "so many miles from Asheville," say "Asheville is so many miles from Hendersonville."

John Wanamaker said the mountains here were more beautiful than those of Switzerland. Advised strong, persistent advertising. Said one northern man told him, "I am astonished at your beautiful country. I always thought you had but three things here: Hot weather, niggers and cotton, but I find a paradise." Quoted Pinehurst and other places, with their climate which we would not endure, as being results of properly directed efforts in advertising.

The two speeches were most interesting from start to finish, and held the close attention of the audience to the last. It is aptly a larger crowd was not present to get some valuable common-sense pointers how to advance their town's interests, and their own.

HEARD ON MAIN STREET

The depravity of man is something awful to contemplate. As everyone knows, George Vanderbilt has great game preserves in Henderson county, and there are many fine turkeys on it. But George has also a large number of game wardens, and it's difficult, not to say impossible, for any one so inclined, to shoot on his property without bringing a number of these inquisitive gentry to the spot. But, as there is more than one way of killing a cat, so, too, are there different methods of capturing wild turkeys. The latest improved method and the one most in vogue just now in the Pink Beds, is to carefully soak some corn in whiskey, and scatter it where it will do the most good. The turkeys, soon become "full" of "corn," and act in a way of which no sober bird would be guilty. An eye witness to one of these orgies told me it was one of the funniest things he had ever seen. The effort of the birds to stand erect, their staggerings to and fro, and their desperate attempts to maintain their usual dignified bearing until they finally fell over, unable to move, made a most ludicrous picture. It is then an easy matter to capture them, and before their temporary fall from grace has had time to give them a taste of its after effects, their head is gone, in more senses than one. This method of capturing turkeys is not endorsed by Mr. Vanderbilt's game wardens, who are taking steps to have all the wild turkeys under their jurisdiction take a solemn pledge to abstain from "corn" in any form.

William E. Curtis, the famous newspaper correspondent, who was in Asheville the other day, remarked to The Citizen that the people of this city did not realize the great boon which nature had conferred upon it. "Your climate is a panacea for all ills," said this brilliant writer, "and that fact should be advertised from one end of the country to the other. Spasmotic advertising can bring no result, you know that. Keep hammering your advantages into the minds of the great American people and you cannot fail to prosper."

Mr. W. F. Edwards, of the Carolina Real Estate, Loan & Development Co., on seeing the above clipping from the Asheville Citizen said: "If this is true of Asheville, how much more so of Hendersonville, with its absolute freedom from all contagious diseases, its magnificent scenery, its ample and modern hotel accommodations, its hospitable people, its beautiful streets, and many other advantages. Advertising is as necessary to a town as it is to a successful merchant. People cannot know of the advantages of Hendersonville unless it is told to them, not once, not twice, but over and over. Advertised properly, and Hendersonville would in time become the resort of the South."

Talk Your Town Up! Don't Talk it Down!

Judge Justice said:

There is an old conundrum, "Why is a widow like a baby?" Because she cries a good deal the first six months, then she begins to take notice, and it's hard to pull her through the first summer. Sometimes they act differently. Mrs. Alice Sewell, of Swainsboro, Ga., on her way home from burying her husband, met an old flame of hers, Robert S. McDaniel and they were promptly married before returning to her residence.

This is an old story that will bear repeating about a well-known lawyer of Hendersonville, who, upon being asked to deliver a prayer in a certain church, got up and said, "Excuse me, I'm a lawyer!"

Judge Justice says the dialect writers are wrong when they accuse us of saying "we uns." He says we do use the expression "you uns," and claims it is correct, grammatically, but pleads not guilty of the first.

There is an old story they tell of Jim Case, so old 'tis almost new. Jim was on the platform before some debating society, and was drawing an impressive word picture of modern life. Waving his arms in the air, he cried, dramatically, "and there is the great locomotive, thundering along, over mountains, over rivers, and through valleys, taking to market our petaters, our pertunipins, and percabages!"

If you don't feel well, call on Dr. Davis, of the coal and wood yard, for some of his pure rosin pills, free.

Bernhardt drew from 30 to 40 people from Hendersonville, at a cost of from three to five dollars apiece to those who went. Yet the Choral Society, worthy of support from every man, woman and child in the city, had some few seats not occupied at the recent concert.
